Fellowships:

Research Fellowship, University of San Diego, Dr. Fred Galloway, Professor of Educational Leadership, (Fall 2003) & (Spring 2004)

Research fellow for Dr. Fred Galloway, the quantitative methodologist at USD's School of Leadership and Education Sciences. I served as a member of the leadership team for the Ball Foundation's evaluation of the community school initiative in the Chula Vista School District. Duties included administration of surveys, data cleaning, coding, entry and analysis. I analyzed and prepared all statistics for dissemination including charts and methods sections of report. Project demonstrates capacity to work in research partnerships with large urban K-12 district successfully.

Research Fellowship, University of San Diego, Dr. Mary Scherr, Professor of Educational Leadership, (Spring 2002) & (Fall 2003)

Research fellow for Dr. Mary Scherr, the qualitative methodologist at USD's School of Leadership and Education Sciences. This fellowship was for teaching assistance, book chapter contribution, and technical research support and instruction.

Research Fellowship, University of San Diego, Dr. Fred Galloway, Professor of Educational Leadership, (Fall 2001) & (Spring 2002)

Research fellow for Dr. Fred Galloway, the quantitative methodologist at USD's School of Leadership and Education Sciences. Duties included data cleaning, coding, and analysis. Analysis function was advanced non-linear regression analysis and was presented at AERA. This is a large research project on educational administration in a large rural Mid-western school district. Principle investigator was Dr. Larry Frase from San Diego State University. This project demonstrates capacity for K-12 research partnerships with large rural school district.

Research Fellowship, University of San Diego, Provost Office, (Fall 2001)

I served as the assistant to the Chairperson of the Committee for the Protection of Human Subjects, (now IRB) at University of San Diego 08/01 - 12/01. Duties included attending all CPHS meetings and offering methodological insights to the research projects being proposed. I also wrote project action summaries for all research proposals.

Professional Employment:

Assistant Professor, University of San Diego (05/05 to current)-(Instructor 01/05-05/05)

Coordinator of Instruction and Outreach for Copley Library. Duties include: course integrated instruction, teaching research methods, one-on-one instruction/consulting with doctoral students, bibliographic instruction, reference, creating online tutorials, marketing library services, creating web pages, collection development, and outreach to local K-12 public and private schools. I was responsible for the redesign of all instructional services offered by Copley including developing online bibliographic instruction and standardized curriculum for library research methods and information literacy courses. Additionally, I am responsible for the development of an outreach program to market the library services. I oversee budgeting and collection development for the School of Leadership & Education Sciences, School of Nursing, and the School of Arts & Sciences Psychology Department.

Adjunct Professor, School of Leadership & Education Sciences, University of San Diego (Spring, 2007)

Counseling 508, Research Methods in Counseling

Adjunct Professor, School of Leadership & Education Sciences, University of San Diego (Spring, 2007)

Educational Leadership 579, Statistical Package for the Social Sciences (SPSS)

Reference & Original Cataloging Librarian at University of San Diego Copley Library (09/01 to 1/05)

Duties include reference desk and original cataloging for a private university library. I was responsible for cataloging all original USD theses and dissertations and government documents. I gained valuable OCLC cataloging, Innovative, Millennium and Passport experience.

Teaching Honorarium, School of Leadership & Education Sciences, University of San Diego—Educational Leadership 608 Quantitative Analysis (Fall 2003)

This teaching honorarium position included instructing doctoral students on SPSS in two sections of EDLD 608. One course was for the EDLD students at USD, and the other for the joint doctoral programs in Educational Technology and Literacy with SDSU. Additionally, I drafted a curriculum proposal for the School of Leadership & Education Sciences at USD that implemented as new required course for doctoral students doing quantitative dissertations.

Teaching Honorarium at Chapman University, Psychology 600 Research Methods (Fall 2002)

Instructing Master's degree level psychology students on SPSS version 10.2 and how to write a literature review for a thesis/dissertation.

Research Coordinator/ Lab Instructor, The Law and Psychology Consortium at San Diego State University Foundation's (05/99 - 08/01)

A project funded by the National Institute of Justice to examine the outcomes of children and women who have been exposed to domestic violence and went through Family Courts Services mediation (FCS). Responsibilities included supervision of 15-30 undergraduate students per semester who receive Psychology 499 credits for their lab participation. I trained staff in all aspects of the research environment including Windows applications, Microsoft Office software (Word, Excel, and Power Point) and SPSS, scoring reports, entering data and extensive computer library research skills. I designed and assigned all required assignments for the Psych 499 (special studies) and Psych 497 (Senior Project) students, including extensive lessons on new technologies in instructional design and Web Quest assignments. I assigned grades for projects and course grades at end of each semester. And I facilitated methodological design for content analysis of FCS reports. I supervised all aspects of data collection and data entry. Developed scoring system with manual for content analysis of family court services mediators' reports. Performed inter-rater reliability scales.

Psychological Test Administrator and Methodological Consultant for California Western School of Law, (8/2000)

I administered NEO personality test to incoming freshmen at CWSL. Designed methodology for longitudinal research focusing on the success of these students and will follow project until they have taken the California State Bar exam.

Textbook Electronic Indexer and Content Evaluator, (3/00)

Psychological Testing: Principles, Applications, and Issues, Kaplan and Saccuzzo 5th edition. I developed methods for enriching the educational experience in textbooks by linking relevant electronic resources to subject matter in the chapters. Freelance assignment providing web site addresses for relevant on-line resources and linking chapter related topics with relevant articles available on InfoTrac. Responsible for determining user friendly sites with valued subject matter specifically for each major topic in each chapter. I was responsible for the inclusion of individual test publication companies' web site index.

Research Consultant California Western School of Law, (9/98 - 5/99)

I was a consultant for research design, methodology, data collection and data analysis for the McGill Center for Creative Problem Solving. I trained law students to collect and enter data and on technology in research for their funded project to study the effect of domestic violence on the process of family court child custody determinations. Transfer of large data sets from Excel to SPSS, analyzed data, wrote and presented reports at a major psychological convention.

Researcher and Teachers Assistant at San Diego State University, (6/98 -5/99)

I provided grant-writing support. I oversaw graduate and undergraduate students in their special studies under the supervision of Dennis Saccuzzo Ph.D., J.D. Held weekly research meetings and assigned duties to special studies students. My duties included data entry and analysis for San Diego City Schools GATE program's redesign. This led to a paper presentation at WPA on gender and ethnic differences in performance testing and cognitive deficits in learning disabilities. I performed teaching assistant duties for Dr. Saccuzzo's Psychology of Personality class.

Research Assistant at San Diego State University's Behavioral Teratology Lab, (5/97- 5/98)

I became proficient at scoring a wide variety of IQ and psychological tests including the WIPSI, WISC-R, VMI, MCS, WCST, CVLT, CBCL, PPTV, and WRAT-R. I assisted in the analysis of the cognitive differences between children prenatally exposed to alcohol and a control group. This project led to the development of a database that analyzes the differences in these groups on all the subtests of the WISC-R.
