1. Show that if F and G are antiderivatives of f then $F - G = C$ where C is a constant (does not depend on x). Hint: Use the mean value theorem on the function $H = F - G$. Hint 2: You can do it, don't give up.