Required Books:
David Schmidtz, Creating Wealth: Ethical and Economic Perspectives, 2nd edition (Cognella)
Other readings on Electronic Reserve at Copley Library

Core Requirements: This course fulfills the Core Curriculum requirement for Ethics.

Content:
One of the main tasks of business is the creation of wealth. But what exactly is wealth? How, and from what, is it created? What role do markets play? And what is the role of government in guiding and constraining those markets?

This course will explore various ethical and economic issues involved in the creation of wealth. Our readings will be drawn from classical economists such as Adam Smith, Frederic Bastiat, and Karl Marx, and from contemporary philosophers such as David Schmidtz, Peter Singer, and Richard Anreson. These readings will explore issues involving the origin and justification of private property, the role of prices and opportunity cost in market exchange, the ethics of voting and political regulation, the philosophical nature of freedom and equality, and the morality of exploitation and sweatshop labor.

Course Requirements:
Philosophical readings are dense and difficult. It will probably take longer than you expect to read them once, and it will probably be necessary to re-read most pieces at least once to come to an adequate understanding of the material. You should expect to spend at least six hours per week outside of class time reading and re-reading the material.

- Quizzes – I will give 5-10 unannounced, multiple-choice quizzes over the course of the semester. The purpose of these quizzes is to test your completion and comprehension of the day’s reading assignment, and to encourage attendance at class. Three things to note about them:
  - First, quizzes are given at the very beginning of class. You will not be allowed extra time to take them if you are late, and you will not be allowed to make them up if you miss them. So it is to your advantage to show up and be seated on time every day.
  - Second, you will receive a zero for any quiz that you miss, for any reason. However, at the end of the semester, I will drop your two lowest quiz scores. So missing a quiz will not destroy your grade. But you will have a better chance of excelling in the course if you show up regularly.
  - Finally, these quizzes are very difficult, so it is vital that you read the material carefully and in advance of class. Read the material actively, with pen (or computer) in hand to take notes. And feel free – encouraged, even – to come to office hours any time to discuss any difficulties you might be having with the readings or the quizzes.
• Exams: You will have three in-class exams – two during the regular semester and one final exam. Each exam will consist of multiple-choice questions (drawn from your earlier quizzes), short-answer questions, and possibly a longer essay. The final exam will be cumulative, but will emphasize material covered in the last third of the course. All exams must be taken at the date and time at which they are scheduled on this syllabus. No exceptions will be made except for cases of documented medical emergencies. Please look at the dates now and check for conflicts.

• Participation – Philosophy is best learned through active conversation with others. It is therefore important that you be a regular participant in classroom discussions. Ideally, you will be sufficiently engaged with the material to contribute to these discussions spontaneously and voluntarily. As an additional stimulus, however, I will call randomly on students to answer questions in class. If you cannot answer a question satisfactorily (due to lack of preparation or absence), your class participation grade will be affected. Students may ask at any time to be informed of their current class participation grade.

Your Grade
Each activity in this class is worth a certain number of points. Your grade will be determined based on a straight (un-curved) analysis of percentage of points earned vs. total points.

- Quizzes 5-10 @ 5 points each 25-50
- Exam 1 & 2 @ 30 points each 60
- Final Exam 50
- Participation 10
- Total Points: 145-170

Learning Outcomes
By the end of this course…
- Students should be able to describe, in essay form, the main tenets of major ethical theories such as utilitarianism and deontology.
- Students should be able to apply these ethical theories to various questions involving property and commerce.
- Finally, students should be able to critically evaluate these theories in in-class essays.

Academic Integrity
You are expected to know and follow University Policies on cheating and plagiarism. See the Code of Academic Integrity. Outside research is a good thing in philosophy. Just cite it! If it is determined that you have cheated, you will fail the course and I may recommend that you be expelled from the University.
